Continuing the Legacy

Yvonne Mounsey founded Westside Ballet in 1967, and trained three generations of dancers until her passing in September, 2012. She danced the lead in numerous ballets for George Balanchine during her tenure at New York City Ballet, where she learned his teaching style, and has imparted this technique to the Westside Ballet artistic staff. Yvonne built a faculty that continues her tradition of excellence in training and the development of the student as an artist.

For over 40 years, Westside Ballet, a non-profit organization, has been Santa Monica's premiere pre-professional training company, with over 120 dancers ranging in age from 8-18 years.
